SUDDEN DEATH.

Mrs. Fannie Mercer Suffered Severe Fright and Died of Heart Failure.

Among the many Bethel people who were in the circus tent last Saturday night when the terrible thunder storm struck was Mrs. Fannie Mercer. All were terror stricken and made a wild stampede to get out of the tent, fearful lest the gate would sweep it to the ground.
Refuge was taken in the overhead bridge, where in the darkness were assembled scores of people completely drenched from the driving rain. Among them came teams, an automobile, two elephants and a camel from the circus tents which made somewhat of a bad mixup in the north entrance of the bridge. The lightning was so sharp and the thunder so terrible that many have to admit that if ever in their lives they were scared, they were scared then and there.
Mrs. Mercer, who has suffered more or less from weakness of the heart, was badly frightened and suffered a severe shock while in the bridge as the result of the pandemonium and terrible storm. She was quickly driven home in the automobile and physicians summoned, but she was found in a critical condition and passed away a little past midnight. Her sudden death came as a shock to the people of Bethel who unite in profound sympathy for the bereaved husband and children.
Funeral services were held at Gardinal chapel Tuesday afternoon, Rev. C. N. Gleason officiating.

This year we hope they will be as profitable as usual and that many will attend.

As has been the custom for several years there will be but two speakers. In the morning at 11 o'clock the Rev. E. A. Hoyt will preach the sermon and in the afternoon Rev. O. H. Perkins will address the congregation. The state superintendent will preside.

HAPPY WOMEN.
Wouldn't any woman be happy. After years of suffering. Days of misery, nights of unrest. The distress of urinary troubles. To find relief and cure. No reason why any reader should suffer in the face of evidence like this:

Mrs. Almira A. Jackson, of East Front St., Travers City, Mich., says: "For twenty years I was doctoring for kidney and liver trouble, but without benefit. Just before I began using Doan's Kidney Pills I was almost paralyzed. I could hardly stand on my feet because of the numbness and lack of circulation. Had a knife been thrust into my kidneys the pain could not have been more intense. My sleep was disturbed by visions of distorted faces. The kidney secretions were exceedingly irregular, and I was tormented with thirst and always thirsty. I used seven boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills. The bleeding subsided until I weighed 100 pounds less, could sleep like a child and was relieved of the pain and the irregularity of the kidney action. My circulation is good and I feel better in every way."

A FREE TRIAL of this great kidney medicine which cured Mrs. Jackson will be mailed on application to any part of the United States. Address: Foster-McLure Co., Buffalo, N. Y. For sale by all druggists at 50 cents per box.

THE HOME CIRCLE.

Pleasant Evening Recreations—A Column Dedicated to Tired Mothers as They Join the Home Circle at Evening Tide.

Truth of Science.
If you will look into the early life of truly helpful men, those who make life easier or nobler to those who come after them, you will almost invariably find that they lived purely in the days of their youth. In early life the brain, though abounding in vigor, is sensitive and very susceptible to injury, and this to such a degree, that a brief moderate indulgence in vicious pleasures appear to lower the tone and impair both the delicacy and efficiency of the brain for life. This is not preaching, boys, it is simply the truth of science.

Swift Destruction.
We have sat upon the sea shore and waited for its gradual approach, and have seen its dancing waves and white surf, and admired that He who measured it with His hand had given it life and motion; and we lingered till its gentle waters grew into mighty billows, and had well-nigh swept us from our firm footing. So we have seen some of the heedless youth of our town gazing with curious spirit upon sweet motions and gentle approaches of invigorating pleasures and sins, till they have detained their eyes and imprisoned their feet and they have been swept to swift destruction.

The Beautiful Lesson.
If you love, love more. If you hate, hate less. Life is too short to spend in hating any one. Why war against a mortal who is going the same road with you? Why not expand the flower of life and happiness by learning to love, by teaching those who are near and dear the beautiful lesson? Your hands may be hard, but your heart need not be. Your form may be bent or ugly, but do you not know that the most beautiful flowers grow in the most rugged, unsheltered places?

Recipe for Happiness.
Go out under the bright, broad sky, listen to the songs of the happy birds, the shout of the dancing brooks; see how the sunlight glories bill and meadowland and comes shimmering down through uncut forest leaves. Then your faces from the thought of your cares, forget a little while, and let your soul thrill and glow under the wondrous touch of divine harmony that fills all nature. The glad earth seems ever calling to an enjoyment of the all true and the all beautiful. Morning after morning we know the hills clap their hands for joy, away off in the greenwood, and the birds of the tiny bird thrill and thrill, again and again, because they are glad. And we have so much more to make us happy than they have—many hopes not theirs that lead hearts never know. How can we go up and down the highway with sad countenances when the whole earth seems so happy? It seems like ingratitude to God to do so. And our selfish and pleasant faces will bring such sunlight to other hearts!

Rich Without Money.
Many a man is rich without money. Thousands of them with nothing at all, except a pocket, are rich. A man born with a good sound constitution, a good stomach, a good heart and good limbs and a pretty good head piece, is rich. Good bones are better than gold, tough muscles than silver, and nerves that flash fire and carry energy to every function, are better than houses and land. It is better than loaded estates to have had the right kind of a father and mother, good friends and bad friends exist among men as really as among cattle and horses. Education may do much to check evil tendencies, or to develop good ones, but it is a good thing to inherit the right proportion of faculties to start with. That was is rich who has a flavor of wit and fun in his composition. The hardest thing to get along with in this life is a man's own self. A cross, selfish fellow, a desponding and complaining fellow, a timid, care-burdened man, these are all born deformed on the inside. Their feet may not limp, but their thoughts do. A man of fortitude on the brink of the grave would gladly part with every dollar to obtain a longer lease of life.

That Sweet Song.
The secret longing of nearly all who are wanderers or whose abiding place is temporarily among strangers, is expressed in the words of that sweet song "Write me a letter from home." The one thing that the heart needs is a word from those around the old hearthstone. Especially is this so in the case of young men. No boy goes out from the home circle without a sense of loss. For a time, at least, the motherly presence is sadly missed, the sisterly affection warmly cherished. Then if the mother's letters reach him often, filled with all that a mother most eloquently expresses, love, hopefulness and prayer, he is still surrounded by a holy influence.

If the sister writes frequently, manifesting her pure affection in such ways as her heart naturally prompts, he can hardly run into sin. And if home epistles come seldom, what then? The loss in the young man's life must be made up. He finds his leisure hours dull, and they must be enlivened. There is no call for long, heart-felt letters in return for similar ones. The evenings he might give to penning these, he spends in amusements of doubtful character. Wanting the tenderness of woman's love, it is not strange if he falls a victim to wicked wives. So he forsakes his better self and takes to his bosom pleasures that sting him to death. And ere long he becomes a thing for the mother and sister to weep over, and his promising young life fades out in darkness. A sad picture this of course. But it is only a picture of even sadder realities. There are hundreds of young men in every great city, in the very lowest depths of degradation, whom the home influence, carefully and prayerfully extended through tender, affectionate, womanly letters, might have saved. There are hundreds of others, just taking their first lesson in vice, who may be brought back to purity by loving words from mothers, sisters or sweethearts. Until a man becomes thoroughly vicious, the thought of a pure woman's love will do much to restrain him from iniquity. If that love grows careless of him, he grows careless of himself. Think of this, you who have sons, brothers or lovers away among strangers. Remember that you owe them a sacred duty; and give them frequent missives from home, freighted with love and accompanied by earnest prayer.

WOMEN WHO CHARM

Health Is the First Essential Toward Making a Woman Attractive.

MISS HULDA KUGLER MISS ELIZABETH WYNN

There is a beauty and attractiveness in health which is far greater than mere regularity of feature.

A sickly, irritable, and complaining woman always carries a cloud of depression with her; she is not only unhappy herself but is a damper to all joy and happiness when with her family and friends.

It is the bright, healthy, vivacious woman who always charms and carries sunshine where she goes.

Miss Elizabeth Wynn, of No. 203 5th Avenue, New York City, writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham—
"For months I suffered with dreadful headaches, pain in the back and severe hemorrhages. I was weak and out of spirits all the time. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound helped me when all other medicine had failed. It seemed to be just what I needed and quickly restored my health."

$100 REWARD, $100.
The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one "dreaded" disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

GENEROUS DISTRIBUTION.
It is cheering to know when discomfort oppresses that the world is sure to show the great cure for distress. Though the life we endure are often far from nice, of this we are sure:
We can get good advice.
It is put into print.
It is broadcast on the air.
This converted as a hint.
In an emergency rare.
So read the advice.

No Time to Lose.
The wise old doctor was impressing upon his little patient the essentiality of mastication.
"My lad," he advised, "no matter what you eat, always chew such mouthful 25 times."
The young shock his head significantly.
"That wouldn't do at our house, doctor."
"And why not, my son?"
"Because I'd always be hungry. The rest of the kids would clean the table off before I got through with that one mouthful."—Chicago Daily News.

Jinks—would have been run over on Broadway today if it had not been for Winks, who was with me. He sprang forward and showered blows on the horses' heads with an umbrella. Just as the umbrella broke, the team stopped, and I was pulled out from beneath the wheels.
Winks—Did the umbrella have a silver handle like a shepherd's crook?
Jinks—I didn't notice particularly, and besides, he broke it all to pieces stopping the team. Why?
Winks—He borrowed mine yesterday."—N. Y. Weekly.

I will mail you free, to prove merit, samples of my Dr. Shoop's Restorative, and my Book on either Dyspepsia, The Heart or The Kidneys. Troubles of the Stomach, Heart or Kidneys, are merely symptoms of a deeper ailment. Don't make the common error of treating symptoms only. Symptom treatment is treating the result of your ailment, and not the cause. Weak Stomach nerves—the inside nerves—mean Stomach weakness, always. And the Heart, and Kidneys as well, have their controlling or inside nerves. Weaken these nerves, and you inevitably have weak vital organs. Here is where Dr. Shoop's Restorative has made its fame. No other remedy even claims to treat the "inside nerves." Also for bloating, biliousness, bad breath or complexion, use Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Write me to-day for sample and free Book. Dr. Shoop, Bethel, Me. The Restorative is sold by H. S. Pushard.

TILE DRAINS.

How They Should Be Laid and a Device That Will Aid.

Where there is a sufficient grade, there is little to contend with in laying tile. From the point where the water stands, the shortest possible cut should be taken through the dry land to the outlet. If, however, there is a great deal of compact blue clay between the marsh and the desired outlet, it is sometimes more economical to run the ditch around these deposits than to attempt to cut through them.

If the ditch is cut through such clay, it is advisable to fill in a layer of coarse gravel just before filling in the clay. This will prevent the finer particles of the clay from entering and clogging the tile.

When the land is nearly level and it is difficult to tell just where the ditch should be run to "get the fall," a simple device can be made similar to the one shown. Take a 2x6, 16 feet long, and to the middle of this bolt an upright piece four feet long. To the top of this upright piece attach a string with a plumb bob at the bottom. Near the lower end of the bob, tack a rule one inch above the lower end of the upright piece. Set this device in the ditch. If the bob rests at O, exactly under the point where it is attached to the upright plank, there is no fall whatever. If it moves to the left from O, there is a fall of about ten feet to the mile for each eighth of an inch the plumb bob removes to the left from O. As soon as the fall is determined under the device, remove it 16 feet to the left and determine the fall there.

It is considered that a fall of five feet to the mile is ample; however, many ditches are laid with a fall of only three feet to the mile. The greater the fall, the less liable the ditch is to become clogged, and where it is possible, the fall should be at least ten feet to the mile.

WEIGHING BY FIGURES.

Rules for the Measurement of Hay in Stacks.

A ton of dry hay contains all the way from 300 to 500 cubic feet, depending on the length of the hay and its quality.

The rule for measuring hay varies in different localities, a cube of seven feet being considered in some places a ton and a cube of eight feet being considered a ton at other places. We would like to sell hay by the seven foot plan and buy it by the eight foot plan. A cube of hay eight feet each way will contain 512 cubic feet in all, which with the average run of hay will come very close to a ton. It takes a very excellent quality of hay for a cube of seven feet to make a ton.

The rule for estimating the number of tons in an ordinary stack is to multiply the length in feet by the width in feet and this by the height to a point where the stack would be level. This height is sometimes considered one-half the height of the stack. The result divided by 500 will give a very good measurement of hay, being the number of tons in the stack.

To estimate the contents of a round stack, says the Farmer, we multiply the square of the distance around the stack in yards by four times the height in yards and point off two places from the right and this will be the number of cubic yards in the stack, which divided by 20 will equal the number of tons. For instance, a stack measures 20 yards around the bulge and is eight yards high, to find the number of tons first square the distance around the bulge 20 yards which would be 400, multiplying this by four times the height eight yards, we would have 12,800, pointing off two places from the right making 128, which, divided by 20 gives 6 and 4/5 tons of hay in the stack.

Sells for White Oaks.

White oaks have few side roots, but each has one long tap root which extends far down into the ground. These trees get most of their food from the deep subsoil below. Elms and maples have a number of side roots which extend far out in the surface layer. They get the bulk of their food from the surface 12 inches of soil. Oaks should never be attempted in very rich soils, or elms and maples in poor clay soils.

Clay Soils.

All clay soil and soils which become packed easily, need organic matter. To these soils a great deal of manure should be applied or they should be seeded to some kind of grass. The grass roots decay and increase the amount of organic matter.

HENS, MOTHERS FOR GOSSINGS.

Directions for Hatching and Rearing Them.

The first thing to consider in hatching goose eggs under hens is never to put more than three or four under a good hen. More cannot be covered properly. Confine the hen to a fair sized run with her nest enclosed in some quiet place. Keep a dish of pure water, also one of grain, where she can help herself. Just her well three times with rice powder and remove all clean eggs after seventh day. When the goslings hatch give the most careful hen four to six. Confine the hen and goslings in a shady grass run. Give water in a drinking fountain that the young ones cannot get into and one that can be washed clean inside and out.

The yard must be changed often enough to have good, soft grass all the time. Grass is the best goose food. It easily obtained, gives bread and milk with small amount of shorts and meal mixed with for first week. Also add a fifth rolled oats to the feed. After the first week, suggests Orange Judd Farmer, increase amount of shorts and corn meal, also add a little beef scraps. After the first month the hen can be fed mostly on shorts, corn meal and oats, with about a fifth of the feed compound of best scraps. Plenty of grass, good but not too much feed, clean coops and pure water all the time will make the goslings larger than the hen at one month old.

QUEEN RAISING.

Nursery Cage for the Hatching of Virgin Queens.

An English bee expert, Mr. Shaden, has recently published in the British Bee Journal a description of his improved nursery cage for queen-cells and virgin queens. He says: My improved nursery-cage for the hatching of virgin queens and for holding them until they are distributed to the nuclei is illustrated in the cut. The ripe queen-cell is held in position by the wire-cloth strips, which can be easily adjusted to grip securely queen-cells of any size. The cage opens on a new principle, which makes the insertion or removal of the queen-cell or of food for the queen easy and quick. The cage hangs between the combs some distance from the top by the stout wire shaft, the best position of which rests on the top-bar of one of the frames. The pupa, or queen, is thus kept warm between brood, and is very important in the cold nights of May and June. The cage itself is of the smallest possible size, so that a number of

HOLDER FOR UNRULY EWES.

Device Which Will Prove Convenient at Lambing Time.

We have a plan for making a handy farm device for the holding of unruly ewes during lambing time, which will be of interest to others, writes a correspondent of Prairie Farmer.

This holder is used by us for holding stubborn ewes last winter which would not own their lambs. We wanted to save the lambs, as they were very fine ones and we resorted to holding the ewes, but as this took considerable of our time we devised a holder which holds a sheep far more securely than two men can by hand.

We can place a ewe securely in this holder and go about doing other chores and the lambs will take care of themselves.

Rack for Nervous Ewes.

of themselves. This holder might be very valuable to any farmer who has stubborn ewes. We would especially recommend its use in small flocks.

We saved all of our lambs last winter, which was quite a task, as they were born early in the winter when the weather was quite cold. We found that by using the holder we were born early in the winter when the weather was quite cold.

We make sheep holders of old fence boards, which did very well, and find this material plenty strong, but when the lambs tried to suck they let us know that our device was not complete. We therefore resorted to iron rods, as shown in the cut and marked K and L. These are made adjustable for different sizes of sheep as shown in the cut by three rings which represent the holes which were bored through the corner posts.

We used the sides of an old children's playing wagon. These sides answered the purpose very nicely as they were just the right length. We then sawed two boards 34 inches long, marked H in the cut. These were nailed to the inside of the corner posts. Then we attached a board across the front end with a portion marked C in the cut, sawed off so as to give plenty of room for the sheep's throat, enough to hold any of our sheep. In starting the construction we began with two boards, B and D, about 22 inches long, to which we nailed the bottom boards, which are 34 inches long. We made four posts of fence boards 22 inches long, which we attached to the bottom or floor, one on each corner, as shown in the cut. These posts being marked A in the sketch. We then proceeded with our work and attached three boards at ends on bottom, one in front and two in the rear. These we thought would make the ewe stand in proper position.

We next attached an old board to a board for the rear end of the holder, which we then fastened to the holder by one nail through the bottom nail hole in the hinge which allows the board or end gate to drop down on the end of the way. This is quite a convenience, as it is out of the way and is not liable to be broken off by a sheep running against it. This board is marked D in the cut. This door is fastened shut by a small hook which goes over the nail in the end of the door.

We then found that we must strap our sheep in the holder to make them secure. So we nailed straps to the boards in H, two straps to go over the sheep's back and two straps to go under the sheep's belly. These straps as shown in the sketch, are marked O N. They can be made adjustable by putting any number of holes in the straps which may be found necessary for the size of the sheep which the holder is to accommodate. Four different straps are used for this purpose, one end being securely nailed to the board on the one side and the other end being slipped over a nail, which makes it a very convenient fastening.

For making the iron rods stay in place we fastened a wooden button, as it is called, which holds the rods in their place. We then fastened the front end by nailing boards on slantingly. This makes the holder much more rigid than it would be were the boards nailed on straight across; the boards form a very good brace in this way.

Care for the Ewes.

An addition of five or six pounds of carrots to the daily feed ration of ordinary work horses will always be a benefit. They should be sliced lengthwise so that they will not stick in the animal's throat and choke him.

From all the American tests it appears fair to say that there is no marked advantage in feeding grain for healthy horses that have good teeth.

An old negro was taken ill and called in a physician of his own race. After a time, as there were no signs of improvement, he asked for a white doctor. Soon after arriving, the doctor felt the old man's pulse, and then examined his tongue.

"Did your other doctor take your temperature?" he asked.

"I don't know, boss," replied the man. "I ain't missed anything but my watch as yet."

The Usual Way of Preserving Eggs.

The usual way of preserving water-glass for storing eggs is to dilute one part of silicate of soda in ten parts of pure rain water. The eggs, which must be strictly fresh, are placed in a stone crock or wooden tub, and the solution poured upon them. A cool cellar is the best place to keep the jar. Waterglass, or silicate of soda, can be secured at most drug stores at 14 to 16 cents a pound. Eggs will keep in it, if fresh when put down, for six months or a year. This method is considered one of the best known for preserving eggs.

Mortality Among Ducks.

Surprising.

It is surprising how many people, church goers, and, as a rule good people, are willing to pay for a secret by which summer eggs can be preserved to be sold in winter as fresh. Be above such dishonest practices.
